RIGA, June 17.—(By The Associated Press.)—More friendly attention has been heaped upon the Baltic states by various European powers since the Rapallo treaty, the trade agreement between Russia and Germany, was signed April 17 last, than during all the time since their creation by the treaty of Versailles. This is because of the geographical position of the states, forming as they do the most accessible "bridge" between Russia and Germany.

Shortly after the signing the Germans started the ball rolling by a "hand shaking" expedition headed by Herr Blucher, Berlin's commissioner for the Baltic Herr Blucher visited Kovno, where he spent several days with the Lithuanians, thence on to Riga for conferences with the Latvians giving assurances in Riga, as he did in Kovno, of Germany's friendity and peaceful intentions which in the end, would bring only good conformeally and otherwise, for the young republics which the between East Prussia and Russia. From Riga, Herr Blucher went to Reval on the same mission, and afterward to Helsingfors, holding conferences in each place. The Germans in May inaugurated an airplane service connecting the capitals of the new Baltic states with Koenigsberg in East Prussia, whence there is aerial service direct to Berlin. The Germans also are planning to improve the Baltic railroad service which, indirectly, connects Berlin with Moscow.

Upon the heels of the Blucher mission quickly came the recognition dejure of Lithuania by France, and since then French missions of various kinds have been pouring into Kovno, arranging for the opening of trade relations on a most friendly basis. Now France and Germany are vieing with each other to curry Lithuania's favor. The French missions in Riga and Esthonia have increased their personnel, and 70 leading French manufacturers will participate in Riga's approaching trade show. The French exhibits are to arrive on special steamships, and the show will be visited by delegations of business men and several delegations of business men and sev-eral members of the French parlia-ment.
